The scissors are then used to extend the incision along erctimax limbus through an angle of approximately 3 clock-hours.

I've made a correlation between over-eating at night and an attack of rls.

If you were going to make it a proprietary index, you wouldn't sell it for a buck.

A detailed examination of the pricing policy followed in the last 10 years has been done so as to develop an index that can be used as base for further computations.
